Romans 10:5-15

Does Belief Matter?

Don't you just love "spell check." Why is it that every time I try to type "love" on my phone, it comes out live. My clumsy fingers always seem to find the "i" instead of the "o". I check in with my children every morning and let them know I am alive and well. I almost always tell them I "live" them. I've told them they need to do their own version of spell check. When they see "live" just know I meant "love."

Those two words mean very different things but as long as I live I will always love my children. This is my message and it is the message that God sent to us via his son, Jesus. He will always love us no matter how many times we fail to be all he has created us to be.

In our scripture lesson for this week, Paul is telling the Jewish Romans that they cannot possibly earn God's love. It is theirs, simply for the taking. If we were to live as long as Methuselah, and we were to attempt to follow every law and ordinance in Leviticus, we couldn't possibly earn God's love and forgiveness. Yet, each one of us can receive God's love and forgiveness just by believing in Jesus and having faith in his promise of life abundant and life eternal.

Hope to see you Sunday either in church or online. We will continue our series: "I HAVE A QUESTION FOR YOU." This week's question is: Does Belief Matter?

With love and hope,
Rev. Sharon
